

Where can we publish extension research?-A Note

The following questions bother many who are keen to publish their research on extension.

- Can we publish our papers only in journals having “extension” in their title?
- Which are the other journals where we could publish findings of extension research?
- Why many other social science journals that publish articles related to extension not being considered for career advancement purpose by organizations like ICAR and SAUs (in India)?
- As professionals, should we do something to include many more professionally rated-high impact social science journals in indices which are used for judging professional achievement?
- But are we sufficiently aware of the wide range of available journals where we could publish our work?

At AESA, we thought, we should first compile a list of journals where we can publish (and where some among us are already publishing) so that we could address some of the issues related to extension research in general (See AESA Blog 4, 5, 29 and 39) and scientific publishing in extension in particular (AESA Blog 40).

This list was compiled by Dr Kiran Yadav (CRISP, Hyderabad) with the support of Dr Sethuraman Sivakumar (CTCRI, Trivendrum) and Professor S V N Rao (RIVER, Puducherry) and on behalf of AESA, I thank them for their contribution.

This is a “work in progress” and we do not claim this as the ideal or the complete list. I am sure there are several other journals which we are not aware of and so not finding a place in this list. We need your support in updating this table. Please write to aesanetwork@gmail.com with your comments and suggestions on this list.

We look forward to hearing from you.
